RELEVANT LAW(S):

ISSUE/PROPOSAL STATEMENT: Software contracts should contain language delaying payment until contractor confirms product is properly working.

RATIONALE: "DRMS and Tidemark are two examples of when the City was ripped off. Accepting low bids and then the winner of the bid being allowed to come back and ask for more has costs the City a fortune. If vendors know what they are doing, they should be able to make a bid and live with it." Jim Capizzo, Letter Rec'd 10/21/10
